

What kind of printer are you?

The Pointless Printer

Prints everything just because they like to have a hard copy of all documents, even e-mails.

The Competitive Printer

The bigger the pile of what they perceive to be 'crucial' documents, the more important they think they look.

The 'Old School' Printer

Feels they can't possibly comment on an email request without printing it off to read it and thinks it is impossible to edit documents by looking at them on screen – can only do so by printing off and writing amends on the paper copy.

The Hasty Printer

Presses the 'P' button before checking quantity, length, etc of the document and watches as 20 copies of a 200-page document in full colour come out of the printer, and then rolls their eyes as if the printer is at fault.

The Sneaky Printer

Acutely aware they are over-printing, and that such practice is frowned upon, but can't live without their paper - so gets in early or stays late to make copious amounts of what is possibly personal printing so no one sees them.

The Model Printer

Double-sided, recycled paper. Only prints what is essential and likes to share documents with the rest of the team.
